

The Ultimate TV Buyers Guide

- Any TV to run Google TV (TCL, Sony or Hisense TVs found to be the best) - Google TV runs Android meaning that you will have a lot of freedom. Such as sideloading, installing custom homes and many many more! Great app catalog, has every app that you can think of, and is updated faster than you can say 'chipmunk'. Supports Chromecast meaning you can easily connect your chromecast connected devices such as: Phones, Chromebooks and even VR headsets! Comes with amazing Google Gemini. The most powerfulest AI out there to give you great recommendations. Also includes amazing soundbar support. Rating 9.6/10
- High powered Roku Devices - Roku has a great app catalog but not the best. Users found that Roku devices are super speedy along with many bugs. Voice assistant is trash, they never find anything you need. Has many ADs especially with the new home screen update. Roku updates 5 times a year, which isn't great. Doesn't support Chromecast. Meaning you can really only connect your phone and that is about it. All Roku devices don't have a browser and most apps have to be built off the Roku Framework. Meaning there will be many bugs in apps that don't have that much support. Rating 7/10
- Samsung - Samsung uses TizenOS, which many people absolutely hate! Samsung is quick and snappy until you realize it's riddled with ADs. Users find it very hard to navigate since of the ADs. The app catalog isn't great either due to low demand for Samsung TVs. Very underpowered voice assistant. See [page] for more details.
Rating 1.5/10
- Vizio - Vizio TVs use SmartCastOS. People say it's worse than Samsung's TizenOS. It's way more riddled with ADs. If you use this TV just get an external device.
Rating 0.2/10
- AppleTVOS - Only used on external Apple TV boxes. Useful if you have a TV like Vizio. It's sleek, clean and minimal. Rating 8/10
- LG WebOS - WebOS is okay. There isn't a very good app library and it was built from a failed smartphone running WebOS, so in that case it isn't very reliable. It doesn't have as many bugs as Roku and apps have to be built using an internet browser's framework. WebOS mostly forces Microsoft's Copilot on you and it's not very good.
Rating 6/10

What to avoid, when buying a TV

You should always avoid buying TVs like onN, Element, Westinghouse, Philips, Insignia, RCA, Toshiba, Vizio and Samsung.

Best TV to buy in 2026

SONY
 Google TV

OR

TCL

 Google TV

The REDDIT USERS Section

Ready for REDDIT users to give out opinions so here it is!

 pricelesslambo • 1y ago

Google tv Q is widely regarded as the best one. Tizen is one of the worst.

⊖ ↑ 18 ↓

Tizen is Samsung's OS

 Jm137797 • 1y ago

I like the Sony Google TV Q.

⊖ ↑ 27 ↓

 BlackmoorGoldfish • 1y ago

I was a Roku Q guy for 10 years. The Google TV on my Sony converted me after a couple of weeks.

↑ 5 ↓

 Raztax • 1y ago

I like my Sony tv while I find the Tizen os to be the spawn of Satan

↑ 4 ↓

Readers' Choice TV Guide

<https://tinyurl.com/bestTVbuyers>

OR

